To release bank funds and/or investments from late client accounts

| Does the late client hold investments? |
|---|
| Yes, please start the form at section A |
| No, please start the form at section B (Please proceed to page 4) |
| Section A. Let us know what you'd like us to do with the assets |
| Please choose one of the five options below. |
| 1. Sell all investments – charges may apply |
| You give us permission to sell all investments (including any ISA portfolio) and transfer the cash proceeds received by Coutts from the sale of investments, investments where assets are held solely as cash (for example, a Cash ISA) and any residual funds to the account in the 'Payment details' section. |
| 2. Transfer all investments to an existing portfolio with Coutts |
| You give us permission to transfer all investments (including any ISA portfolio) and any residual funds to the following existing portfolio account with Coutts: |
| Beneficiary's name |
| Portfolio reference numbers |
| How to use your additional permitted ISA subscription allowance |
| If you'd like to use this option, you also need to complete the additional permitted ISA subscription (APS) application form. Email us at privatebankprobate@coutts.com to ask for the form. |
| What does APS mean? |
| When someone with an individual savings account (ISA) passes away, their wife, husband or civil partner is entitled to an extra ISA allowance. This is called the additional permitted subscription, or APS allowance. The partner can invest extra money into their own ISA, over and above their normal annual ISA allowance. |
| There are some cases where your ISA may not be able to accept APS transfers. We'll let you know if this is the case. |
| To use the APS allowance, you authorise us to transfer any ISA held by the late client with Coutts (either as stocks and shares or as cash) to an ISA of the surviving spouse/civil partner held with Coutts. |

Section C: Terms of the agreement

Before signing the agreement at the end of this form, please review the terms below:

- You understand we'll rely on the information you've given us and the statements you've made in this agreement to carry out your instructions
- Where you've given us a Will, you, to the best of your knowledge and belief, confirm the Will to be valid, complete and unrevoked by the late client. And that you're not aware of any dispute around the validity of the Will.
- Where you've not provided a Will to Coutts, you, to the best of your knowledge and belief, confirm the late client left no valid Will and that you're the next of kin and the person(s) entitled to the estate on intestacy. And you're not aware, to the best of your knowledge and belief, of any claims that have been made under the Inheritance (Provision for Family and Dependants) Act 1975 in respect of the estate
- You confirm that, although you're entitled to apply for a Grant of Representation, you understand this is not needed to release any bank funds and/or investments as the value of the estate of the late client falls within the Coutts "small estates" category
- Where instructions have been given above for the release of bank funds and/or investments (including any residual funds), you confirm that they've been declared as part of the estate of the late client and that the intended beneficiaries are entitled to them
- You agree that Coutts can use any money left in any account solely held by our late client to pay back any money owed by them to
- If, after the date of this agreement, Coutts receives a claim from a personal representative authorised to act for the estate of the late client under a Grant of Representation that you were not properly entitled to instruct Coutts to release any bank funds and/or investments you will, at Coutts request, facilitate and procure (on the basis of joint and several liability where there is more than one party to this agreement):
 - the re-transfer to Coutts of any bank funds transferred
 - the re-transfer to Coutts of any investments and residual funds transferred
 - where any investments were sold by Coutts for investment proceeds before transfer, the transfer to Coutts of the original number of units/shares of the applicable investments before being sold for investment proceeds. Investment proceeds are the cash proceeds received by Coutts from the sale of investments
- In consideration of Coutts acting in accordance with your instructions, you agree (on the basis of joint and several liability where there is more than one party to this agreement) to reimburse Coutts, at our request, for any and all losses, reasonable expenses and other reasonable costs incurred by Coutts as a result
- You understand that all executors named in the Will must sign this agreement (save where any have renounced or are deceased, in which case you've provided a certified copy of the deed of renunciation/an original death certificate for those who will not be acting). Where there is no Will, you understand that all next of kin who are legally entitled to apply for letters of administration must sign this agreement. In either case, this includes signing any instruction letter (where provided) and initialling each appendix/attachment to that instruction letter
- Where a party to this agreement lives in Scotland, Scots law applies to this agreement with respect to that party. Where a party to this agreement lives anywhere else, English law applies to this agreement with respect to that party. If there's a dispute between us, you can take legal action against us in any court in the United Kingdom
- This agreement (including any instruction letter) must be signed in counterpart. This means that each party must sign and date a separate copy. It's effective from the date on which the last party signs and dates the agreement

Section D: Confirm your agreement

By signing this agreement, you confirm you've read and understood its terms and how we may use your information.

Note: All executors named in the Will are required to sign this agreement (save where any have renounced or are deceased, in which case proof Will be needed if not already provided). Or, where there is no Will, all next of kin who are legally entitled to apply for letters of administration are required to sign this agreement.
